

FISHING CREEK FLOOD STORIES

By W. M. “Bill” Baillie

Author, emeritus professor of Bloomsburg University & former president of the Columbia County Historical and Genealogical Society

Many cultures around the world preserve flood stories about a titanic inundation that changes the world drastically. Here in the Fishing Creek Valley, we have our own flood stories of many occasions when creek overflows markedly changed the landscape, ecology, and the lives of residents. Author/historian Bill Baillie will present tales of the heroism and horror, the trials and triumphs of Valley people in flood-time.
